

PSG Institute of Technology and Applied Research

Neelambur, Coimbatore - 641 062

Department of Mechanical Engineering

A two day workshop of 'Journal Paper Writing' was organized by Department of Mechanical Engineering, PSG Institute of Technology and Applied Research on 22nd and 23rd March 2024. Dr Shankar (Professor & Head, Dept. of Mechatronics Engg., Kongu Engg. College) was the resource person.

1. Dr Shankar started the session on identifying simple research problems around and to give simple solutions for those problems. He also stressed upon the importance of choosing the area of research based on the facilities available in the institute or facilities that can be easily available nearby.
2. He also gave insights about the contents to be presented while submitting the journal papers for the easy acceptance of the publication.
3. Importance of appropriate keywords while writing the journal publication was stressed during the presentation by Dr Shankar.
4. Dr Shankar told about the importance of review papers and how it should be written for the benefit of the scientific society. He mentioned that review papers will help in increasing the citations.
5. He also gave an overview about the research proposal writing.
6. Dr Shankar made the participants aware of fake journals. He gave tips to identify fake journals and asked the participants to be very careful while submitting the manuscript to the journals.
7. During the last session of the workshop, Dr Shankar went through the manuscripts prepared by the participants and suggested the corrections/improvements to be made for increasing the probability of acceptance.

Dr S Shankar addressing the participants during the 'Two day workshop on 'Journal Paper Writing'

Participants of the 'Two day workshop on Journal paper writing'